

Finding half using partitioning

A large dashed-line box containing two vertical columns of shapes. The left column consists of 20 identical vertical rectangles with rounded ends, each filled with a grey-to-white gradient. The right column consists of 20 identical vertical octagons, each with a white-to-grey gradient. The two columns are separated by a vertical dashed line, and the entire set is enclosed in a larger dashed-line border.